

ENVIRONMENTAL COORDINATOR

(Training can be provided to suitable candidate)

Georgetown Tribal Council

has an immediate opening for an Environmental Coordinator (EC) in our Anchorage office. The EC, under supervision of the Tribal Administrator, will direct all environmental oversight related to the Tribe's lands, including water quality mapping studies and other monitoring of mining and projects which affect the water, air quality, fish, plants, and wildlife along the Kuskokwim River. The EC will update and oversee the environmental master plan, prepare technical and other reports, work closely with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), manage the Tribal Environmental Committee, seek grant funding, organize and conduct field collection of ground and surface water samples in remote locations, and eventually manage the permitting and construction of a landfill. The EC will travel to the Kuskokwim region quarterly to track environmental changes and attend meetings on behalf of the Tribe.

QUALIFICATIONS: The ideal candidate will have education or experience in science or environmental studies, possess solid writing skills, have experience in grant writing, and have a basic understanding of mining issues. Proficiency in Excel, Word, and PowerPoint is preferred. A resourceful, independent thinking, self-managing, team worker who can multitask and work cooperatively with both tribal members and mining/project staff is desired. A familiarity with Native culture and non-profits is preferred. Although an ideal candidate should have a bachelor's degree in a related field, the Council may be willing to train a motivated person with proficient writing skills, a professional attitude, and attention to detail.

Starting Salary: $45,000 + DOE. Full benefit package includes health, dental and vision.
